ments, Mr. D. was of the opinion that the entire Senate was not willing to concur. The debate had, thus far, been confuned to Senators on the other side, and he believed that there were Senators upon his side who would prefer to discuss the question in all its bearings. A postponement, too, would give a little freshness to the subject, when it should be resumed, and this was desirable by all manner of means.

Gen. Cass wished to say a word upon one little matter. He would promise not to make a war speech. (Laugh, ter.) He would not use the word "inevitable" at all—(aughter)—as he would tell the Senator from North Carolina. (Mr. Haywood smiled, and nodded his head) The General contended that the course of the British government was not one whit more pacific than at the last preceding advices. Now, there was not one man, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, that was more an advocate of peace than he. But he was not disposed to purchase a peace. We were wasting time. Half the interval between the arrival of the steamers was taken up in discussing what the news is, and the other half, in what it ought to be. The article in the government paper (the Unions) of Sunday last, had actually taken him by surprise, because the editor had considered the foreign news pre-eminently pacific. The Queen's speech amounted to nothing. It was the stereotyped form of a hundred years. What else could she say. But while she had expressed the hope of peace, she had also recommended an increase of her army and navy. This was not a part of her internal policy—nor could it refer to France, because she was now in close alliance with the French government—nor could have reference to the aspect of affairs in Europe. No, sir. This increase of the British treasury for twenty vears past, had advocated these extraordinary warlike expenditures. Referred to Lord John Russell's paper on the subject of the 49th degree. No compromise upon that line. Our claims overlape each other. If we give the notice, the year will expire, and we shall proceed to the

Mr. Davron.—Certainly. Will the Senator propose and amendment.

Mr. Cocquiry stated that he had objections to the amendment of the Senator from Kentu-ky. (Mr. Crittenden.) throwing the entire responsibility of the notice upon the President; and that as he. (Mr. Colquitt.) for one, believed in the policy of the notice, he also recommended negotiations and a compromise.

Mr. Evans.—I hope the amendment will be read.

The Chairs stated that the amendment would only be read for information.

Mr. Evans.—I hope the amendment will be read. The Chair stated that the amendment would only be read for information.

Mr. Californ hoped the Senate would proceed, after the reading, to vote regularly upon the amendments.

Mr. Colquirt's amendment read for information. It provides that the President shall give notice to the British Government of the dissolution of the Oregon Conventions of 1818—27, after the expiration of the present seasion of Congress, unless he may deem it expedient to defer such notice to a later period; and that, as the expression of Congress, it is eminently desired that the difficulty should be speedily settled by negotiation and compromise, in order to tranquilize the public mind, and to maintain the relations of peace subsisting between the two countries.

Mr. Chitender, with a view to the consideration of this amendment, moved that the whole subject be postponed till to-morrow, and that the amendment be printed. Agreed to.

Mr. Calhoun hoped that if no member was prepared to go on to-morrow in the discussion, that the Senate weald proceed to vote upon the amendments, in order to give some definite shape to the subject for final action.

Mr. Allen was about to move to go into executive to give some definite shape to the subject for final action.

Mr. Allen was about to move to go into executive session. On the subject, however, of the amendments he would prefer that we should postpone the voting, until we had finished the speaking.

Mr Californ thought also that it would be better to close the discussion first.

Mr. Californ renewed his wish for a vote upon the amendments, that the question before the Senate might be put into some definite shape. Several Senators desired to speak upon the resolution, when it would assume its final form, and he for one.

Mr. Allen spaining the irregularity that should arise from such a course.

Mr. Californ contended, on the contrary, that the the course he Senate had been pursuing, was not strictly the parliamentary order.

Mr. Allen renewed his motion to go into executive business.

Mr. Mangury moved to edicary.

Mr. Allen Beleved to adjourn.

Mr. Manoum moved to adjourn.

Division called—23 to 23. The Vice President voted in the negative. No adjournment. Division called on going into executive business—23 members rising in the affirmative. Give it up.

And the Sanste went into executive session.

House of Representatives.

Mr. Brodhead moved that the rules be suspended, and that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole, on the State of the Union. (Cries of "Oh, no.") The question was taken, and decided in the negative; and committees were called for reports.

RETROGESSION OF THE COUNTY OF ALEXANDRIA TO TRIBUILD.

MIT. HUNTER, from the COUNTY OF ALKEANDRIA TO VIRGINIA.

MIT. HUNTER, from the Committee for the District of Columbia, to whom memorials and resolutions of the Legislature of Virginia, on the subject, had been referred, reported a bill to retreeede the county of Alexandria, (now a portion of the District of Columbia, to the State of Virginia, which was read twice and referred to the Committee of the Whole, on the State of the Union.

NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Mr. Kino, from the same committee, reported a bill to amend an act organising the navy department; which was read twice, and referred to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

THE BULER - A BLOW AT LOG-ROLLING.

Mr. HOLMES, of S. C., from the select Committee on the Rules, made a report, to the effect that, on the engrossment of any bill making appropriations of money for internal improvements, it shall be in the power of any member to call for the question, and the House shall vote on each separate sizem.

Mr. Boyo moved the previous question; and before an opportunity was afforded for the seconding of the demand,

Mr. Tibbatis moved to lay the report upon the table; whereupon,

Mr Boyo called for the year and nays, which were ordered.

Mr Ewing, of Pa., asked whether that was not the rule now?

The Syrakka replied, he was under the impression it was not. Some time are, he decided that the question could be taken on the separate items, but he was overruled by the House.

Mr. Ewing expressed the hope that the Speaker would always be allowed to decide, where there was no established rule, and [cries of "order," "order"] and he was satisfied that—[flere the cries of "order," in different parts of the hall, drowned the voice of the Speaker.]

The Syrakka (with his usual politoness) informed the gentleman that a motion to lay on the table was not debateable.

Mr. Schemer did not intend to debate the motion, but merely to ask whether the design of the report could not be accomplished in some other mode.
The Spraker The Clerk will call the roll.
And the yeas and nays were taken, and resulted—yeas 60, mays 95.
So the report was not laid on the table.
The Spraker announced that the question now recurred on seconding the demand for the previous question.
Mr. Wex. woath. rising, said that the gentleman from
Mr. Boyo was inclined to adhere to it.
Mr. Wextrears said, in a loud tone, that if the object was to prevent corruption, by such a report, attention should be turned to other sources. (Cries of "order."]
Mr. Boyo rose, much excited, and asked whether the gentleman's remarks were intended to have a personal application?
Some other words passed—members called to order, and the Speaker beat briskly upon the desk with his hammer. And when the noise somewhat subsided, Mr. Wextwoath answered the question of the gentleman from Kentucky, by disclaiming all personality in his remarks.

In a few moments afterwards, the tall form of Mr.
Wentworth was seen on its way to Mr.

man from Kentucky, by disclosiming all personality in his remarks.

In a few moments afterwards, the tall form of Mr. Wentworth was seen on its way to Mr. Boyd's desk, where these gentlemen seemed to converse in a perfectly friendly manner.

Mr. Winther rose to a question of order—that the rules could not be changed without a day's notice.

The Spranks said that the instruction to the Committee was equivalent to a notice.

Mr. Winther read from the rules in support of his position, and was, by remarks, fertifying his point, when

Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, rose to a point of order.

The Spranks remarked that the gentleman from Massachusetts was himself stating a point of order.

Mr. Jones took his seat, and

Mr. Winther, who still kept possession of the floor, finished his observations.

WINTEROY, who still kept possession of the floor,

Mr. Winternor, who still kept possession of the floor, finished his observations.

Mr. McClellan wanted to ask a question. Will it require a vote of two-thirds to adopt the report of the Committee, to change the rules?

The Spraken—It will not.

Mr. C. J. Increase. desired to change his vote. He had intended to vote against the motion to lay the report on the table, but—

The Spraken informed the gentleman it was now too late to make the correction. [A voice, "Let it go."]

The question was taken by tellers, on seconding the demand for the previous question, and it was decided in the affirmative—ayes 56, nose 72; and by a vote of 98 to 75, the House decided that the main question should be mow put. now put. Some gentlemen suggested that the morning hour had expired.

The SPEAKER said that, notwithstanding, he was under : M

the impression that the main question must be now put the House having ordered it.

The yeas and mays were called for, and ordered; and as soon as the result—yeas 106, nays 71—was announced,

Nearly a dozen members jumped to their feet, crying out loudly, "Mr. Speaker." "Mr. Speaker."

A motion was made by the successful contestant for the floor, that the vote first taken be reconsidered; and the previous question was called for.

Mr. Tinsarrs moved that (as the morning hour had expired) the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

Mr. Brodhead saked the gentleman to withdraw the motion for a moment, as he desired to make a motion with regard to a bill sent in from the Senate. [Cries of "Oh, no!" "Hold on to 1!" etc.]

The Staken briefly stated that a metion had been made to reconsider the vote by which the report of the Committee on the Rules was adopted, and the previous question moved. But notwithstanding, it was, in his opinion, cempetent for the House te go into Committee of the Whole. [A Voice—"Vote the motion down;" and another, "Yes, we can do it"]

Mr. Vance gave notice that to-morrow he would introduce an amendment, requiring separate votes to be taken on all items for light houses, fortifications, and duties on imports.

The question was taken on going into Committee, by yeas and nays, and was determined in the negative—yeas 85, nays 88.

The question then recurred on seconding the demed for the previous question, to reconsider the vote by which the report of the Committee on the Rules was adopted, and it was decided in the affirmative—syes 84, noes 79.

So the main question was ordered to be put; and by a vote of yeas 80, nays 95, the House refused to reconsider.

THE HARROR BILL.

The House resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union.

Mr. BROGRED moved to take up the joint resolution of the Senate, authorizing the transmission and presentation to the Minister of Justice of France, of books and documents in exchange for those from him. This subject, he said, had been before Congress for two or three years, and it would not take five minutes to dispose of it. But he was unsuccessful in his effort.

The Committee resumed the consideration of the bill making appropriations for rivers and harbors.

Mr. Farse, who claimed the floor, it having been assigued to him yesterday, went into a constitutional argument to show that the government had not the right to make appropriations for the objects stated in the bill. He acquiesced in the condemnation of it in the strong terms of his colleague, (Mr. McConnell.) Look at it up one side, and down the other, in all its aspects, and it would be found that no bill, liable to such objection, had ever been presented to the American Congress. He was told that there was one exception, but what it was, Heaven only knew, for, in his short legislative career, he bud never seen one less objectionable. He took the occasion to say that he was opposed to the doctrine of improving, by government, "inland seas;" he placed them on the same footing as the little river by the mountain side, so far as appropriations were concerned. The system of internal improvements was the twin sister of the protective policy, nay, its right leg. The bill appropriated 51 353.450; 5934,450 of which, was proposed to be expended in the North and Northeast, and that section did not comprise more than one-third of the area of the country. There were left but $421.000 for the Missispip pi, Ohio, Arkansas, and Red rivers, including ell appropriations in the Missispip valley. He took up several items in the bill, and commented on them. T which were equally important on the other side of the line.

On motion of Mr. Brodhkad, the Committee rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, the Chairman reported progress.

The joint resolution from the Senate, authorizing the transmission and presentation of books to the Minister of Justice in France, for others in exchange, was read a third time and passed.

And at half past three o'clock the House adjourned.

TEXAS AND MEXICO.—By the arrival of the ste ship Galveston, Capt. Wright, at New Orleans, on the 18th inst., we have Galveston dates up to Mon-day, the 16th. The G. reports only 34 hours from city to city.

We have had later dates from Mexico, at this port, by way of Havana, but the following extracts

The Corpus Christi Garette, of the 12th inst., states that they have received advices at that place from the city of Mexico, to the 12th of January. The dates from the Rio Grande are up to the 7th inst.

The editor of the Garette publishes se veral extracts from Mexican papers, which go to show that Paredes is endeavoring to raise a heavy force to act against Texas.

We copy one item:—

On the 19th January, Gen. Paredes issued a circular order to all the Governors of States, that within forty days from the date, they shall furnish the necessary quots of men to fill up the Army of Invasion to a war complement of the control of th

Church will meet in this city on the 11th of March, and it is expected that about 200 ministers will be present. Last year they adopted the anti-republican and tyrannical mode of sitting with closed doors, not allowing even their own church membership an opportunity to know what they did or what they left undone. The action of this conference on the division of the Church, will, it is expected, be very important, as an attempt is to be made to re-unite the Northern and Southern sections, and some of its members are even determined to renounce all allegiance or connection with either, if this object cannot be consummated. Quite a number of ministers from other conferences will be present, who are favorable to this course, and quite a stirring time may be expected. A number of our legislators at Annapolis, are constantly racking their brains, to conceive some new mode of persecuting the free negross of this State. Laws are introduced, which are contrary to common sense, and equally unlawful and unconstitutional, for the attainequally unlawful and unconstitutional, for the attainment of this object; and I am sorry to say, that some of them, at least, teceive the sanction of the Legislature. There are two bills now before that body, which would not receive the sanction of the Emperor Nicholas, if applied to the lowest of his serfs. One of them is to levy a poll tax of $2 on free negroes, for the benefit of the colonization society, and in case of their inability to pay it, to sell them into slavery; the other is to drive them out of Charles county, and if they do not go within a stated time, to compel them to go into slavery, or be imprisoned until the colonization society is ready to transport them to Liberia.

There is nothing stirring to-day in the line of news, though business is in a lively and stirring condition.

The Weather -- Mauli's Horizontal Sails -- Senator Gibbons and Judge Conrad.

One of the coldest days we have had this winter, and people are exhibiting a goodly quantity of blue noses.

Our mercantile community have had under considera tion for some time past, and have tested by experiment, an improvement in the sails of vessels, invented by Mr. James Mauli, of this city, which promises to be of im-mense advantage to our marine. The invention consists of a sail constructed of horizontal pieces, with bands mense advantage to our marine. The invention consists of a sail constructed of horizontal pieces, with bands running diagonally across, in the form of a Russian cross. From the results of severe tests, applied by our most experienced seamen, this sail possesses qualities of the utmost importance. It can be set from three-quarters to a full point nearse the wind than vertical sails; can be reefed and furled with much greater ease, and will keep their positions better; and, in case of accident, by riping, the fracture is confined to a single piece of canvass, extending no further than the cross band. The first-mentioned quality is invaluable, as enabling vessels to sail near the wind, when in danger of going on a lee shore. Had the John Minturn, and the other vessels which stranded in the late gale, been supplied with these sails, the probabilities are, that they would have got off the coest, and many valuable lives saved. If these sails will enable vessels to sail nearer the wind than they can by the use of vertical sails, they are of vast importance, and should certainly be adopted universelly.

The quarrel between Senator Gibbons and Judge Conrad is exciting considerable interest. The Senate has already taken up the subject on a question of privilege, and we may soon expect to see some fun in the premises.

The stock market is not as well sustained as on the first arrival of the foreign news, which shows that its pacific character is not now so confidently believed in.

Strammont Disaster—Narrow Escape.—The steamboat Cumberland, running between Philadelphis and Baltimere, came near foundering, a few nights since, when near Newcastle, on the Delaware. In the early part of the night, it being very dark, the boat grounded a little below Newcastle, and was not got off until near two o'clock; shortly after two, she was struck by a tornado from the northeset, and rolled from side to side—and the vessel became quite unmanageable; at the same time, the night was so dark that it was impossible to ascertain the exact po that he is not so active, or capable of Busiless at formerly, also is a serious effect; though little understood, but it is anquestionably true. Indeed, whoever considers the natural connection of mind and sexual organs, will easily imagine that, as there is a medium by which the mind so powerfully acts upon these organs so, through the same medium the sexual organs react upon the mind. This, however, is better explained in "The Private Treatise" of the author, a little volume which is seat to many parts of the world. As the cure of Stricture proceeds, tas activity of mind invariably returns.

With respect to the cure of Stricture—this, it is gratifying to state, is generally accomplished in very little time, and without pain or inconvenience. Nothing can exceed the improvement of atty years in the treatment of this complaint. Indeed, in the hands of proper and experienced persons, the cure of Stricture is now accomplished in as many days as formerly it demanded months.
